

PING-PONG MANIA

Apparatus: A rectangular-shaped table & ping pong balls.

Draw two goals at the longer end of the table. Two players are placed at the different ends of the table while the ping pong ball is placed at the centre of the table. The two players will have to try and blow the ping pong ball off the end of the opponent's side of the table (goal). More players can be placed at each end of the table to add more excitement and 'wind' to the game.

Last used: _____

PYRAMID RACE

Apparatus: None.

Teams of six players build three-level pyramids by climbing onto one another and race to a point. If the pyramid collapses, they must stop and rebuild it.

Last used: _____

DOBI HUNT

Apparatus: Articles/small objects (read game info).

Players are divided into equal groups of at least 5 or more people. The game master (GM) stands in the middle of the room. The GM calls out the names of the articles that he lost when he sent his laundry to the dobi shop. When an article is named, each team tries to find that particular item and present it to the GM. The first representative to reach the GM with the correct item wins a point for the group. The group with the most point at the end of the game wins. The GM can call out more than one item to make the game more interesting.

Last used: _____

GARBAGE-BAG BALL

Apparatus: A plastic garbage bag & balloons.

Fill a large plastic garbage bag with blown-up balloons and tie it up. You now have garbage-bag ball. All but ten (or more depending on the number of players) players form a large circle on their knees. The ten players then form a pinwheel in the centre of the circle, lying on their backs, with the heads towards the centre. Everyone should have their shoes off for best results. The garbage-bag is then tossed into the circle. The objective of the game is for the players on their backs to kick or hit the ball out of the circle, over the heads of the players in the outer circle while the players in the outer circle tries to keep the ball in the circle.

Last used: _____